Interest is paid on all balances, fees or penalties could reduce earnings on accounts. Early withdrawal penalties may be imposed on all time accounts if closed prior to maturity.

*RAD (Rate Adjustable Deposit) Certificates – the interest rate and annual percentage yield may change after account opening upon the customer's written request to change the rate as indicated above.

 After the first 7 days following account opening, one withdrawal of either all or part of the account balance will be allowed without a penalty. After the one-time withdrawal has been completed, normal penalties will be assessed for any additional withdrawals prior to account maturity.

 Annual percentage yield on compounded certificates assumes that interest will remain in the certificate for the full term. Interest may be paid periodically by check or electronic transfer, per customer request, but the annual percentage yield will change.

Individual Retirement Accounts

All certificates of deposit are available to IRA customers. IRA certificates will bear the same rates and terms as provided above but will only be available as compounded certificates. In addition to IRA certificates, IRA customers may also open an IRA savings account. See IRA Savings rates and terms above under Checking and Savings accounts. All our IRA accounts are subject to the rules and regulations of the established IRA Plan regulations set by the Internal Revenue Service.
